About me

I'm Adam, a 15-year-old programmer with a passion for backend development. Over the past 2 years, I've been coding in JavaScript and Python, building applications with Express.js and Next.js. My dream? Landing an internship to soar higher in the IT world!

Passion for Coding

My passion for programming was inspired by my father, a programming department manager. I started my coding journey with LEGO Mindstorms EV3, gradually progressing to Scratch, Unreal Engine, and Python. I'm particularly fascinated by cybersecurity and backend development—fields in which I aspire to build my future career—though I also enjoy working on the frontend.
